Judaica List July 2011

Judaica Including Some Rare Anglo-Judaica

Item 89

Item 53

1. An Act for the Relief of Persons of the Jewish Religion elected to Municipal Offices. [31st July 1845]. London, 1845. [5043] Folio disbound. £375

This Act removed the need for "Receiving the Sacraments of the Lord's Supper as a Qualification for Certain Offices and Employments" Instead it allowed 'Persons of the Jewish Religion' to declare

"I A. B., being a Person professing the Jewish Religion having conscientious scruples against subscribing the Declaration..... do solemnly sincerely, and truly declare That I will not exercise any Power or Authority or Influence which to injure or weaken the Protestant church as it is by Law established in England....."

This Act of Parliament was another step towards emancipation.

2. [Goldsmid, Abraham] Act of Parliament - An Act to provide for the more complete and effectual Liquidation of a Debt due to His Majesty from the late Abraham Goldsmid, Merchant, and his surviving Partners and to confirm and establish certain Agreements entered into for that and other Purposes relating thereto - 27th June 1812. Dublin, George Grierson, Printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty, 1812 [4877] £375

Folio, 30cm, disbound. - (1) + 714-734 (ie 22 pages). Abraham Goldsmid was one of the more prominent members of the wealthy Goldsmid family of English financiers. About 1777, Abraham and his brother, Benjamin, founded a brokerage partnership in London. Their business became very successful and eventually became involved in major government contracts. After the death of his brother in 1808, Abraham took over, but soon after that, the fortunes of the business quickly declined, leaving him with unbearable debt. Payment of a very considerable loan was due on Sept. 28, 1810; the next morning Goldsmid was found dead with a pistol by his side. Over several years, the Goldsmid firm made great efforts to repay the loan. In 1820, Parliament, upon the creditors' petition, annulled the remaining debt.

3. Service of Prayer and Thanksgiving to be used In all the Synagogues of the British Empire on the occasion of Sir Moses Montefiore, Bart., completing his hundredth year. Sunday, 26th October, 5645, 1884. London 1884 [8976] £150

13. Allbutt, Henry Arthur. Di Froy's Handbuch (The Wife's Handbook) Yiddish. London, R Forder, 1897. [9869] £395

First Yiddish Edition. Original wrappers, 18.5 cm [8] + 82 + [18]. Some minor soiling and wear, overall a very good copy.

First Yiddish edition of Allbutt's The Wife's Handbook. The work contains numerous advertisements (some illustrated) showing contraceptive devices, the pessary etc., and there are also advertisements for feeding bottles for children and magazines such as Hints of Marriage and Monthly Nursing. According to Alec Craig's The Banned Books of England (pp 113-114), as a result of a complaint by the Leeds Vigilance Association in 1887 Dr Allbutt was struck off the medical register for publishing this book on contraception, and "it has been suggested that part of Dr Allbutt's offence was the rather blatant advertisements in the book", although Craig says there is no evidence for this from the General Medical Council, which he goes on to quote: "In the opinion of the Council, Mr Allbutt has committed the offence charged against him, that is to say, of having published and publicly caused to be sold, a work entitled The Wife's Handbook, in London and elsewhere, at so low a price as to bring the work within the reach of both sexes to the detriment of public morals".

First edition. Original gilt cloth, no dj., 23cm, 443 pp. Cecil Roth's classic work, reprinted and translated into several languages. This is one of the rare first printings with the title on the spine missing the BC and AD so that it looks like a history of the Jewish people covering the period 1600 to 1935 AD see below. "Cecil was away in the United States when the History first appeared. Returning home one afternoon I found the first copies waiting for me, along with a message that a Mr Macmillan had been telephoning at frequent intervals. It was urgent he had told the maid. Barely glancing at the new book, I rushed to the telephone and called Mr Harold Macmillan. "Please return your copies to me at once. I'll send a messenger to call for them" said the future prime minister. "There has been a horrible error. If you look at the title on the spine of the books, you will see the BC and AD after the dates were omitted, so that the title gives no sense." No less upset than Mr Macmillan, I sent our copies back at once. Stupidly, and to my regret I did not think to keep one of these books with the BC and AD missing... " From Cecil Roth, Historian without tears. A Memoir by Irene Roth, page 77.

Presumably they were to advertise the issues of the magazine highlighting the contents of each issue. A collection of 11 posters/broadsides. Darkest Russia was a monthly supplement to the Jewish Chronicle in the 1890s. From about 1881 the pogroms and degeneration of the economic condition of the Jews in Russia led to mass immigration of Jewish people to New York and London amongst other places. Concern for their brethren left in Russia became one of the greatest concerns for British Jewry as can be seen from glancing through issues of the Jewish Chronicle from the period. The Jewish Chronicle published reports of the outrages situation in Russia on a regular basis however Mr Gladstone suggested that it should publish the facts regarding the persecution consecutively and collectively. "On July 17, 1891, accordingly, there was distributed with it as a supplement the first number of a monthly periodical, Darkest Russia, A Journal of Persecution, produced under the auspices of the of the Russo-Jewish Committee but printed and distributed like the Chronicle itself, by Asher Myers. The editorship was anonymous but it was known to be Isidore Spielman" (see The Jewish Chronicle 1841-1941, A Century of Newspaper History page 104.)*
