ICONIC - YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE JEWISH POSTERS

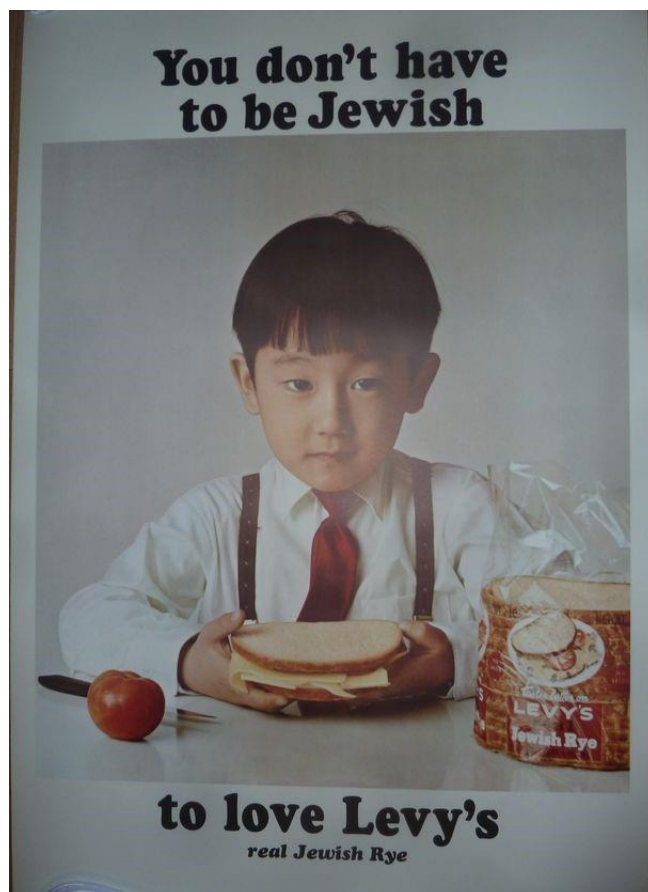

These posters appeared with several different nationalities including Asians, Indians, and Afros. Whitey Ruben, owner of Levy's Jewish Rye bread selected the DDB company for its advertising campaign. With an annual advertising budget that was less than $50,000, the agency viewed the account as its opportunity to gain attention in the Manhattan advertising community by introducing ethnicity into a marketing campaign. The DDB campaign elevated Levy's to the largest seller of rye bread in New York. In 1981, the copywriter William Taubin was inducted into the Art Director's Hall of Fame and the photographer, William Zieff went on to direct films in Hollywood, including My Girl, Private Benjamin and The Main Event with Barbara Streisand. In an interview in 2001 regarding these famous images he said, 'We wanted normal looking people, not blond perfectly proportioned models. I saw the Indian on the street - he was an engineer for the New York Central. The Chinese guy worked in a restaurant and the kid we found in Harlem. They all had great faces. Interesting faces. Expressive faces.' These posters were repeatedly copied and parodied by many people. Some of them are part of the permanent collection in the Smithsonian Institution and were featured at the Oakland Museum Poster Exposition in 1999. There is an article on these ads by Andrew Silverstein in the Forward (February 14, 2022) and August 7, 2025 'How a Jewish mother from Flatbush became America's most recognizable Italian on TV'

27. EVANS-GORDON, MAJOR W (LATELY MEMBER OF THE ROYAL COMMISSION ON ALIEN IMMIGRATION) THE ALIEN IMMIGRANT - WITH MAP AND NUMEROUS ILLUSTRATIONS FROM AUTHOR'S PHOTOGRAPHS London Heinemann 1903

First edition. Original brown cloth, gilt titles on spine, image of 2 chassidic/rabbinic Jews on the top board. 20cm, 323 pp + a map and about 19 pages of photographs. There is a little dulling to the spine, and age-toning to pages but overall this is an unusually good copy of a very uncommon book. There are many photographs of Jewish life in the Pale of Settlement and Eastern Europe including Pinsk, Cracow, Grodno, Dvinsk, Libau, Lodz and St Petersburg. There are also some photos of immigrant Jewish Life in London and emigrant depots in Hamburg and New York. Evans-Gordon became the MP (Member of Parliament) for Stepney in East London in 1900. This was a district with a large immigrant Jewish population. He was strongly anti-immigrant, and he was a member of the Royal Commission for Alien Immigration which led to the Alien's Act of 1905. This book is a record of his travels through the Pale of Settlement in an attempt to present evidence that the level of persecution of the Jewish community was exaggerated. The book has some fascinating photographs from his journey and there is some interesting information about the Jews of Eastern Europe. [ref: 15348]

RELATING TO THE McMAHON LETTERS [WITH A MAP] London
Jewish Agency for Palestine 1939

Original wrappers, 25cm, 20 pp, very good condition. Colour map fold-out of "Arab Territories and Palestine" at the time.

This was Jewish response to the British Government's publication of the "McMahon Letters" published earlier the same month (March 16th, 1939). The McMahon Letters include the correspondence between Sir Henry McMahon (His Majesty's High Commissioner in Egypt) and Hussein Sharif of Mecca between 1915 and 1916 and represent a series of letters that were exchanged during World War I in which the British government agreed to recognize Arab independence after the war in exchange for Hussein's launching the Arab Revolt against the Ottoman Empire. These alleged promises to the Arab side given before the later BALFOUR DECLARATION OF 1917 were therefore considered by the supporters of the JEWISH CAUSE as being without legal validity.
