[Jerusalem] Masoroh 2002

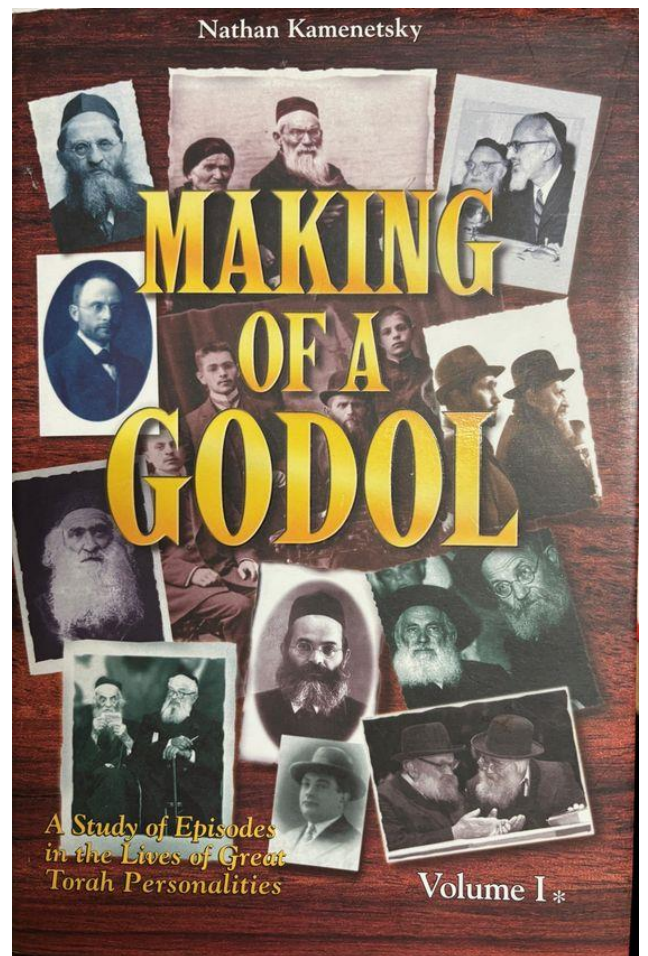

Original cloth, 24cm, 2 vols. 1,398 pp.

DJ. very good condition. ISBN 965-

90379-0-2. n 1987, R. Nossou

Kamenetsky retired from his position in the ITRI Yeshiva and began exhaustive research into the life of his father, R. Yaakov Kamenetsky. This research resulted in these comprehensive 1,398 page work published by HaMesorah publications, consisting primarily of analysis of episodes of the lives of sixty eminent rabbinic personalities. This work was to be the first of four volumes on these subjects. Only a limited number of copies were produced, as R. Nossou felt that this work was not for the general public. Immediately after its publication, an uproar ensued, as some felt that some of the matters described should not be recorded for posterity. A controversial ban was placed on the book, resulting in most of the copies getting destroyed. The books were later republished in a revised version. The books say Volume 1 – part one and part two. As more volumes were initially intended. A copy sold at auction in the USA in April 2023 for a hammer price of $2,250 plus commission = $2,812.50

Original wrappers, 26cm, 17 un-numbered pages mostly cartoons, there is a foreword by Henry Edward Schultz the National Chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of the Bnai Brith and there is a postscript by Herman Wouk winner of the Pulitzer Prize.

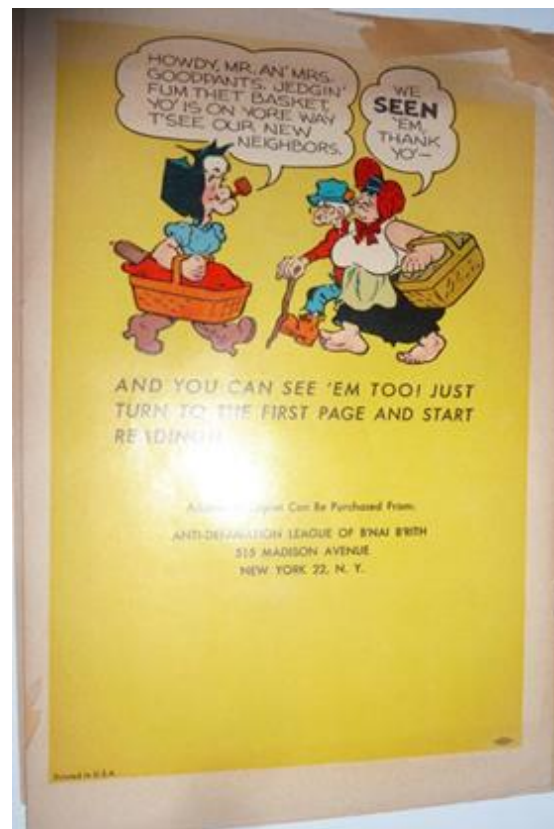

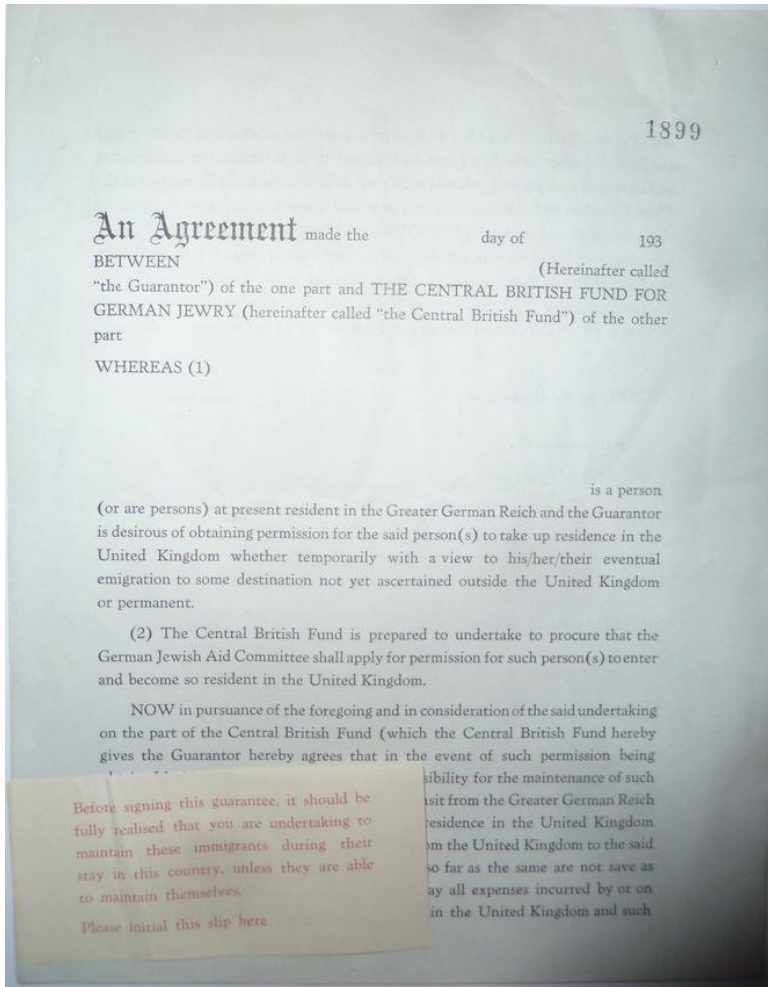

This comic book reprints a fable about prejudice and racial harmony by Al Capp. The story first appeared in Capp's L'il Abner comic strip. The comic book, printed and distributed by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, tells a fable about prejudice and racial harmony.

When a family with square eyes moves into Dogpatch, the round-eyed residents form a mob to drive the newcomers away. When one of the square-eyed children is hurt, Mammy Yokum discovers that what she has in common with the new folks is more important than their differences. She stops the mob and helps her neighbors get to know the new family.

Mammy Yokum declares, "We is all square shooters, so we gotta give them folks wif th' square eyes a square deal!! Th' l'il diff'runces between folks shouldn't hide th' big things thass th' same 'bout all of us!!" OCLC 25270819 lists 7 copies. Very fragile some pages detached and chipping to wrappers. A DUTY TO BRITAIN and a Duty to the Community

*A Message to You
from Leaders of British Jewry*

THIS month, every man and woman in Britain between the ages of 16 and 65 is being asked by Sir John Anderson :-

Will you volunteer for National Defence? Will you pledge yourself to serve your country according to your age, physique, and special skill?

Each one of us has to uphold the highest standards of life and conduct, and help to present a solid Wall of loyalty and courage. We must stand in line with the best elements of the whole of the country.

All this is vital for the future well-being of the British people.

MEMORANDUM

Correspondence with the Soviet Government respecting the Persecution of Judaism in Russia.

1. Early last year the Jewish communities of Western Europe and America were much disturbed by stories which reached them of the sufferings of their Russian co-religionists under the anti-religious laws enacted by the Government of the Soviet Republic. These laws had already evoked strong protests from the Heads of all the Christian Churches on account of the prosecutions of dignitaries of the Orthodox Greek Church to which they had given rise. It soon became apparent that the very existence of Judaism in Russia was in peril, and in August the Union of Polish Rabbis and Talmudists, in agreement with the Rabbinate of Wilna, took the unusual course of appealing to the Jewish communities of the world to appoint a day of Fasting and Prayer in token of protests against the persecution. A few weeks later the Polish Committee of the Agudas Yisroel, the chief organ of Orthodox Judaism in Eastern Europe, addressed an appeal on the same subject to the Genoa Conference, which was referred by that body to the League of Nations. No statement was made by the Soviet Government in repudiation of the allegations thus made against it.

2. In September the Chief Rabbi placed the facts before the Joint Foreign Committee and asked it to consider whether any steps could be taken to prevail upon the Soviet Government to moderate its anti-religious attitude. It was clear from the outset that anything in the nature of a public protest or other hostile action would be useless, and accordingly it was resolved to address an expostulation to the Soviet Government, setting forth courteously, but firmly, the cruelty and unwisdom of the anti-religious laws, and expressing a hope that it might be found possible to adopt a more liberal policy. A letter in this sense was sent on September 11th to the Official Agent of the Soviet Republic in London, with a request for its transmission to his Government in Moscow.

the well known enemy publication Baedeker's Palestine and Syria and Augmented with various additions. Palestine News 1918

Original orange wrappers, tan linen backstrip, 20cm, 109 pp plus xxxvi pp of advertisements printed on green paper that are divided between the front and back of the book.

Front cover lettered in black. With 3 colour maps and a large colour map of Palestine (unfolding to 900 x 630 mm) in the back pocket. This is a Presentation copy to Major Archibald Becke with two tipped in autographed letters from Harry Pirie Gordon. These letters seem in response to a request for copies of these guides, and Pirie Gordon notes their scarcity due to the shortage of paper because of the war. Major Becke created the maps for the History of the Great War based on Official Documents. The maps are some of the earliest of the region to exploit the cartographic applications of aerial photography.

Self wrapps, 22cm, 4pp Text in English and Hebrew. Slight age tanning, overall very good condition. Sir Moses Montefiore went to Rome to plead with the Pope in the Mortara Affair - Edgardo Levi Mortara was a Jewish boy who became the center of an international controversy when he was removed from his Jewish parents by authorities of the Papal States and raised as a Roman Catholic. Church authorities took custody of the boy after receiving a report that he had been given emergency baptism by a domestic servant during a serious infantile illness. In the Papal States, it was against the law for non-Catholics to raise Catholic children. Mortara was adopted by Pope Pius IX and became a Roman Catholic priest.
